Significance/Outcome:

- Early detection and treatment – The camp enabled the early identification of eye conditions requiring medical or surgical intervention, ensuring timely referrals for specialized treatment.
- Community awareness – The initiative helped raise awareness about eye health, prevention of blindness, and the importance of regular eye check-ups, which is essential for long-term visual health.
- Practical learning for students – The participation of 2nd BHMS, 4th BHMS, and intern students provided them with hands-on experience in clinical assessment, eye examinations, patient communication, and understanding surgical management in ophthalmology.
- Encouragement for future health camps – The success of the camp highlighted the need for regular health screenings and community outreach programs, inspiring further initiatives in the future.

- Strengthening public health services – The camp contributed to improving eye health in the community, addressing critical issues related to vision care, accessibility to healthcare, and preventive measures

Quote / Comment

“Vision is one of the most precious senses, and timely intervention can prevent lifelong blindness. This free eye check-up camp not only provided essential screenings but also strengthened the bond between healthcare professionals and the community. Such initiatives should be encouraged to ensure better eye health for all.”

Conclusion

On 30th January 2025, a free eye check-up camp was organized by the Departments of Surgery, Practice of Medicine, Community Medicine, and Organon of Medicine, Arihant Homoeopathic Medical College and Research Institute at Jamnagarpura. The camp successfully provided eye examinations to over 80 individuals from the local community, enabling early detection and referral for essential treatment of eye conditions like cataract, glaucoma, and refractive errors.

Students from 2nd BHMS, 4th BHMS, and interns participated, gaining valuable experience in patient interaction, clinical assessment, and understanding the importance of surgical and medical interventions in eye care. This camp not only offered critical support to the community but also served as a comprehensive learning experience for the students involved.
